Soviet Explorers Are Prepared for Their Long Vigil

Moscow, June 6.—Four Soviet explorers settled down today with their dog to a year's lonely vigil on an ice floe at the top of the world. The expedition is a preliminary to the establishment of a polar air route from Moscow to San Francisco.

Their comrades, having established them May 21 for the day in the polar wastes, took off in airplanes at 3:30 a. m. yesterday from the camp near the north pole. Three of the four planes reached the Soviet expedition's base at Rudolf island, 560 miles away, on schedule, five-and-a-half hours later. The four was down near the 83rd parallel, about 350 miles from the pole.

The stranded plane had given part of its gasoline supply to the other three so they might finish the trip.

After reaching Moscow Dr. Otto J. Schmidt, the director of the expedition, wired Moscow that A. T. Alexiev, pilot of the fourth plane, "already has prepared a field for a take-off to be made as soon as we can send him fuel."

TAX PROBE IS EQUALITY TEST

The drive to lay a restraining hand on the shoulder of the wealthy tax dodger ought to provide the citizenry with the best show that has been put on in Washington since the midges sat in J. P. Morgan's lap.

For it is going to be funny make no mistake about that. When a multi-millionaire forms a holding company to own his private yacht, rents the yacht from that holding company and then uses the device to whittle down his income tax, he provides a rich spectacle for his humbler fellows, and the congressional committee that is going to look into such things can be expected to make the most of it.

But there is a grim side to it, too. For this sort of thing constitutes just about the most refined and subtle form of disrespect for law that can possibly be imagined. Nothing else could do so much to make ordinary folk feel that there really is a privileged class in this country and that that class is above and beyond the reach of the government.

The income tax, to begin with, is the fairest of all taxes in that it is based squarely on the citizen's ability to pay. If a man's income is very small he pays no tax at all. If it is a larger, he pays a moderate tax. If it is very large, he pays a very large tax.

So far, so good. But if the man in the highest bracket is able to command the services of a slick lawyer, who can juggle figures until a vast income looks like no income at all, the fairness of this tax system goes out of the window. It then becomes a tax which is levied only on those who are not rich enough to escape it.

When this happens, and when everybody in the country knows that it happens, what is the result?

First of all, the government loses some much-needed income which it ought to be getting from those people who are making the most noise about the necessity for balancing the budget.

Secondly, the rich man feels—and has some reason to feel—that he stands above the law; that the government at Washington may have power over lesser folk but that he is in a class by himself.

Thirdly, the people develop throughout the country a general feeling that laws apply only to people who are not smart enough to evade them. The swindler, the racketeer, the grafter, the crook—all of these people—justify their deeds by pointing to the richest and most successful men in the community, who, like them, are engaged in dodging through the loopholes of the law, for profit.

That is why this investigation of tax evasions is so important. It is a test of the government's power to make the law apply equally to all. Until that power is firmly established our democracy cannot be perfect.

Hard on the heels of the bombing by Spanish planes of the German warship Deutschland and the Italian naval supply ship Barletta, the Italian newspaper Il Piccolo declared that an Italian punitive expedition ought to be sent against Spanish government.

From Il Duce's point of view that is understandable. But what do they mean, a punitive expedition "ought to be sent"? How about the tens of thousands of Italian soldiers who have been in Spain these many months, fighting against the Spanish government?

And, on at least one noteworthy occasion, taking a fine licking for them, as an Italian punitive expedition has been operating in Spain for a long time?

Well, I'll Tell You

It is always hard to tell you to do something, and it is even harder to tell you not to do something. But I will tell you something that I think you should know.

It is that the government is not what it used to be. It is not the same as it was when your father was a boy. It is not the same as it was when your grandfather was a boy.

It is a different government, and it is a different world. And it is a different time.

And it is a different you.

New York, June 7.—(Duce) The Italian newspaper Il Piccolo declared that an Italian punitive expedition ought to be sent against Spanish government.

From Il Duce's point of view that is understandable. But what do they mean, a punitive expedition "ought to be sent"? How about the tens of thousands of Italian soldiers who have been in Spain these many months, fighting against the Spanish government?

And, on at least one noteworthy occasion, taking a fine licking for them, as an Italian punitive expedition has been operating in Spain for a long time?

FOES OF COURT BILL READY TO FILE A REPORT

Will Denounce Plan
As a Threat to Government.

CITES RECORDS

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—Senate opponents of the Roosevelt court bill, still scoring compromise, virtually completed today a report denouncing it as a threat to democratic government by the judiciary.

A last conference by the judiciary committee majority remained before submission of the report to the senate.

The document, representing the views of 10 of the 18 committee members, was expected by some to take direct and emphatic exception to arguments by the president for the legislation.

It probably will deny any need for "infusion of new blood in the courts," it was said, and cite the record of the supreme court docket in reply to assertions that the addition of justices would expedite cases.

Comparatively brief, the report itself will be comparatively brief, but voluminous data, including speeches by the president about the proposals and Chief Justice Hughes' letter to the committee, will be appended.

The committee minority does not intend to make a report. Administration leaders intimated, senate consideration might begin next week, following disposition of the relief bill. They continued sounding out uncommitted senators on the possibility of compromise, despite notice by the opponents that any compromise would be resisted.

Week-End Death Toll Number 16; Eight in Chicago

Chicago, June 7.—(AP)—Heavy automobile traffic caused the deaths of at least 16 persons in Illinois over the week-end, an Associated Press survey showed today. Eight deaths occurred in Chicago.

Sideswiping trucks near Pana killed Henry Braddock, 21, and Gale Haynes, 24, both of Mount Vernon. Wilbur Burchett of Rochelle, owner of one truck, was injured seriously.

A scheduled wedding was postponed for the second time by the death at Effingham of the intended best man, Charles Grimsdall, 18, of Louisville, Ky. He was injured Saturday with the bridegroom-to-be, Boyce McNelly, 24, of Gary, Ind., while enroute to the home of the bride-to-be, Miss Pearl Venable of Flora.

The wedding, postponed from Saturday because of the accident, was delayed again yesterday by Grimsdall's death. McNelly was recovering in a hospital where the ceremony was to have been performed.

Homer Adams, 25, farm hand from Mount Carmel, was killed and four others were injured when their car overturned at Albion.

Roger Bartels, 21, of Taylorville, was injured fatally when his car sideswiped a truck near that community, two others were injured. Max Herriott, 24, of Mahomet, suffered fatal injuries near Lafayette, Ind., in a two-car crash.

Mrs. Robert Dupuy, 56, was killed when struck by a car as she walked along the Lincoln highway west of Sterling.

Attempting to save the life of a stray dog, Homer W. Caudill, 29, of Peoria, was killed when he fell from his car as he was taking the dog to a veterinary after running over it. He was crushed into a parked machine. The dog died.

Among the victims in Chicago were George Scream of Lockport, killed by a hit and run driver.

Is Up to Congress to Remedy Mistake

New York, June 7.—(UP)—J. P. Morgan said on his return from England aboard the liner Queen Mary today that "if congress makes stupid mistakes" which leave loopholes in the tax laws "it is up to congress to remedy them, not for us taxpayers to do so."

Tennessee Valley Authority Report Sent to Congress

Washington, June 7.—President Roosevelt transmitted to congress today a Tennessee Valley authority report suggesting establishment of a "uniform principle of making interterritorial freight rates" as an aid to commercial development of that valley and the nation as a whole.

The survey was conducted by the TAV under an executive order. The President forwarded to congress a letter by Chairman Arthur E. Morgan of TVA briefly summarizing the report.

Morgan said the survey showed the present regional freight rate structure of boundaries, constitute barriers against the free flow of commerce which are hampering and restricting the normal development of the nation as a whole by preventing a full utilization of the varied natural resources that exist in the different regions of the country.

"It reveals," Morgan's letter added, "that the existence of these barriers tend to retard substantially the commercial and economic development of the Tennessee river basin and adjoining areas in the south. The report suggests that the establishment of a uniform principle of making interterritorial freight rates will aid the commercial development of such regions as the Tennessee Valley and adjacent to the south.

After stating there was "no national freight rate structure, but rather a composite of regional structures," Morgan said:

"Our board initiated this study in the belief that a survey of the national problem created by the existence of these regional freight rate structures would be useful to the country."
